Society—Wedding

June 15 is Announced

A host of friends and admirers of both young people will be deeply interested to learn of the marriage of Miss Mary Sykes to Mr. Ralph Wear, which was solemnized Sunday, June 15, but just as nounced last Friday as the bride and groom, accompanied by Mr. C. F. Perdue, of Paducah, left for a minor tour of the South.

The rites were said by the Rev. W. T. Nichols, pastor of the First Christian Church, Metropolis, Ill., at his home Sunday, June 15. The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Perdue, brother-in-law and sister to the bride groom.

Mrs. Wear is the charming and attractive daughter of Mr. W. D.

Sykes, of Main street. She received her A. B. degree from the Murray State Teachers College, where she was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

Mr. Wear is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Wear, and is one of Murray's most able and popular young men. He is a graduate of Murray high school, where he started in athletics and he also attended the Murray State Teachers College, taking a prominent part in athletics there also.

For the past three years he has been engaged in newspaper work and is at present a valuable member of the Ledger & Times staff. He also has a large number of friends who join in extending congratulations and best wishes.

After their return the latter part of this week the newly-weds will be at home in the Oak residence, north Fourth street, where they have taken rooms.

clearly of unusual interest, but when two sisters plan to enter matrimony on the same day more than one wedding is celebrated in the matter. So, when the approaching marriage of Miss Mary Sykes to Mr. Ralph Wear, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Robertson, who reside two miles west of Murray, were announced, friends were agreeably surprised.

And it was an unusual manner in which the announcement of the wedding was made. Friends learned of the plans at the end of a treasure hunt at a party given by a brother of the Misses Robertson, Gus Robertson, last Wednesday, the announcement of the wedding being the treasure pot.

The wedding will take place July 24. Miss Mattie Mae Robertson will be married to Barber Humphreys, and Miss Sarah Robertson to Hubert Howard. Both of the brides-to-be have, until recently, been students at Murray State Teachers College.

Even now, in spite of his age, he does not cease to work, but does as much as any young man in the town. He is a large, well-built man, and has a large chestnut-colored hair. He has a large chestnut-colored hair. He has a large chestnut-colored hair.

Tributes paid by his friends show him to be a living example of Christian man. We feel, as is often expressed, he is blessed with good health and left with us for a purpose. We are thankful for it.

Among those present were: Mr. Carl Beale, Mr. Johnnie Hale, Murray; Mr. and Mrs. R. Rogers, Wayne, Rogers, Miss Louella Rogers, West Paducah; Mrs. J. B. Robertson, Mrs. Mary Rogers, Mrs. Ruth Gunter, Quinlan Gunter, Paducah.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fugus, Miss Lillian Fugus, Miss Bertie Fugus, Hen D. Mrs. Trudie Jenkins and Luntie Fugus, Farmington; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shackelford, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Erwin and children, Imbore and Warren, Miss Julia Gunter, South Pleasant Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shackelford, Mr. and Mrs. Solon Shackelford, Hazel; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hale and children, Paul, Edwin and June, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hart, Mrs. Lina Hart, Lydia Sue and Frank, Six Hart, Murray; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Taylor, Mrs. Ruth Hopkins and children, Paul, Miller, Ruth, Almo; Mr. and Mrs. Will Hutchins, Murray; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Miller and daughter, Conna Mae.

All left wishing Mr. Miller many more happy birthdays.

Friends of Mrs. Arthur Farmer surprised her at the home of Mrs. Gattila, C. W. 200, on the Murray-Coldwater road, Thursday afternoon, and showered her with miscellaneous gifts.

Our last good rain was June 16, 25 days ago. It seems to me the crops in Calloway county are damaged $50,000, but I don't know nothing.

I note in Ledger & Times our efficient county agent came to the front with good articles.

I am glad our Ledger & Times is going to have the famous "Will Rogers" in its columns. Mr. Rogers has got every body "kicked" a city block over the radio.

MILK BORNE EPIDEMICS

Nathan Straus, the great national authority on milk for children, says: "Be sure your milk supply is properly pasteurized. There has never been a milk borne epidemic on record WHERE THE MILK WAS PASTEURIZED."

Dr. John Dill Robertson says: "Since the PASTEURIZATION of Chicago's milk supply in 1915 there has not been a SINGLE milk borne epidemic of typhoid, scarlet fever or septic sore throat, while during the four years preceding pasteurization, there were 19 such outbreaks with attendant loss of lives."

If we had the space we could go on and quote such authorities as Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Milton J. Rosenow of Harvard; Dr. Mendall of Yale; Dr. Thos. D. Woods of Columbia University; Dr. Chas. Mayo, and scores of others equally as famous. In fact all physicians of any prominence say—

Hard Times

Most any amateur economist can tell you what causes hard times and most all of them can tell you how to cure them, but, as with any other problem, it is easier said than done.

The enormous buying and selling, producing and using, that make up the economic status of the United States and of the world, is a finely balanced operation. Like a huge see-saw, often the slightest influence can swing the pendulum one way or another and when it gets started in a certain direction the momentum of business makes it hard to stop.

Economic experts have many technical explanations of the fluctuations in the country's economic equilibrium. Actually, on the whole, it is a matter of production and consumption and psychology. During a rising tide of good times both production and consumption are accelerated and a spirit of optimism is created. Producers of goods and services find an active demand which brings good prices and prosperity. They spend their profits and this adds to the speed of production to meet their demand.

Optimism finally reaches the point where it causes production to exceed consumption. Until this actually is discovered, which takes some time so complicated is the picture, national economic growth, like a man afflicted with a dangerous disease, and doesn't know it. In fact it is an economic illness not yet discovered.

The upward swing has carried too far on its momentum and when that fact is discovered panic is born. The great majority begin to conserve. They entrench for the squally days they see ahead, reduce their consumption of goods immediately and drastically. This can have only one effect, an aggregation of the surplus already accumulated. Prices drop rapidly, as they did on the stock exchange last fall, and those surplus goods, which were sold at a profit, now are sold at a loss.

Sharp reductions in production by various factories throw large portions of their employees out of work. These people find their purchasing power shut off, unemployment mounts, consumption falls off. The idle people have now become drag on the wheels of economic progress and prosperity instead of pushers as they are when working, producing and consuming.

The situation grows worse until the bottom is reached. At this point production has been cut so deeply that it lags behind the necessary consumption of goods and purposes. Here the producers begin to find a demand, steam is put on and people begin to go to work, who again become consumers and demand still more production and the prosperity machine goes again accelerating.

Economic periods so in cycles, four, like a gasoline engine, rise, peak, decline and bottom. They have always been so that way, they probably always will be that way. The Federal Reserve Law practically eliminated panics by better conferring and regulating the finances of the country but it is doubtful whether any agency will ever be able to regulate supply and demand to the point where the country and the world will continue on even keel, a steady pull without rise and fall, boom and depression.

The above explanation applies to the country as a whole. Sections have their own minor fluctuations, depending on local conditions, though all are effected in a general nation-wide trend.

For example, the most vital element in Calloway county, is our agricultural harvest. Not only must good crops be produced, but good prices must be obtained if the county is to be prosperous. A prosperous condition, throughout the nation creates a better demand for agricultural products and consequently better prices. A crop failure here will make hard times in this county regardless of the condition of the country as a whole.

It is entirely possible for Calloway county to be prosperous when the nation is in a panic, though that would be a rare event. The weekly business map of the nation shows three conditions or business, good, average and quiet when average business conditions are good throughout the country and fair, slow and poor when the country is in a slump. In good times the map is generally "good" with a few "average" and "quiet" spots scattered around, caused by local conditions. Likewise in bad times a few sections will be shown "fair" when the great proportion of the map is marked "poor."

The country is not going to the dogs, as some pessimists always cry during the hard times period. As an advertisement of the local utilities company quotes: "It gets dark every night and people eat every day."

Folks do not stop all consumption during hard times. They cannot. They may do without some luxuries they have been enjoying, they may even cut down on some necessities when they have to but still a good many want to be satisfied.

Good times will come back when the surplus is absorbed and that time always comes sooner or later.

The wisest thing a person can do is not to become frantic but to make the best of the situation, tighten his belt, make ready for the new day and resolve to be better prepared to meet the slump the next time.

A Vacation For City Children

It would be a fine Christian act, a good Samaritan deed well done, and a wonderful experience well worth the cost, if several good Calloway county families would co-operate with the Ledger & Times and the Louisville Courier-Journal in giving a vacation in God's fresh air this summer to the pen-pal little children of Louisville.

A farm family could entertain one of these boys or girls in its home a week or ten days at very little expense and it would be a wonderful treat for the little city boys and girls who suffer terribly in the sweltering city. Every child must pass a thorough physical examination so that undesirable and children suffering of contagious diseases will not be sent.

Transportation of the children will be paid by the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times. Those who are able and willing to do this for their children are urged to send their invitation to the Ledger & Times or to the Fresh Air Committee of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

JUST JOTS
By Joe

Most men want to make a pile of money themselves and all the rest of the fellows get by with a bare living.

Calloway county lost more than 3,000 in population during the past ten years, some of them being of the best type citizens, constituting a real loss. Of course, if we could lose 3,000 of the worst type, we would be better off.

Things to worry about: Will Rogers gets more money for writing his weekly column that appears in the Ledger & Times than the total receipts of this newspaper for six months.

Food runs in where angels dare to tread—especially in an automobile.

The tariff: What you pay to make somebody rich so that you can turn about and make him rich, by giving you a part of what he has made off you through the customs price. Laugh that off, it's about as easy as laughing off the tariff.

As scarce as gold, garages for country weekly newspapers have no business with two of them. Jim Allen, of the Cynthiana Democrat, is generally acknowledged to be the peer of them all and when he went away on a nice, long vacation Joe Lovett went to the bat for him and rattled safe hits all over the lot.

The Kentucky Press Association ought to take drastic measures about it.

The Jotter gets a vacation next week and a good many a man who is not vacationing, no story will be a lot gladder. If possible, to see him get it than he is to get it himself. For fear of bitterly disappointing his great horde of admiring readers, however, (ah-m!) Jots will be prepared before going away.

Ralph Wear of the Ledger & Times staff came to work at 3 o'clock the other morning to get ahead in his work so as to get away on a vacation this week. Admirable training for a country editor's career, Ralph!

It's a contest between Chicago and the crooks to see which can clean up the other.

Prachers are to get out of Lancaster Record issue of October 12 and after they get through one of 'em may have to officiate at Bob Elkins' funeral.

Brokers' loans decreasing are a sign of hard times on the stock market. In Calloway county bankers' loans increasing is the indicator.

RANDOM Ruminations

I was keenly amused by reading in the daily press Friday morning of what the Hunter boys were doing on the 22nd day in the air while setting the new record for airplane refueling endurance flights. After more than 520 hours in the air the boys were quite worn out and beginning to get a little bit fractious. In fact, they had been quarreling among themselves about when they should come down and other little details for several days.

What was funny to me was the story of John and Kenneth talking over a dead microphone when they believed they were addressing an anxious and interested world below, telling the folks about their experience.

Until they came down the boys didn't know the trick on them selves for quibbling while they were in the air. They were getting irritated enough without anything being heaped on.

The way it happened was this: a radio company plane went up and after much jockeying, who tricked air currents off Lake Michigan, finally succeeded in dropping a microphone down into the cabin of the endurance plane. John adjusted his collar and cleared his throat, said observers, then spoke into the microphone for about five minutes, telling the Nation all about a number of things. Kenneth next took the apparatus and said his speech.

But no one knows what they talked about. A wire on the ground broke just before they started talking and nobody repaired it until they had finished. "Gosh, I'll bet they'd be mad if they ever knew about this," said E. M. J. Walter to the Jotter about it.

Well, that's life for you, folks. Most every time some one is trying to show off and make a big impression on the public no one pays any attention to him. It's the oftentimes when you are unconscious of what you are doing that some one is watching you and judging you. Many a man struggles around, thinking he is "knocking 'em cold" when no one is paying the slightest attention to him.

Nearly all of us pay more attention to making folks think we are something better than we are than trying to make real improvement in ourselves. We want reputation in preference to character. Too many of us assume a character that we aren't and try to be something that we can't. The best way to get a pleasing personality is to be yourself, be natural, in all circumstances. Acting a role never got anybody anywhere permanently.

And most of the time we are acting a part we are only fooling ourselves, others generally find out and know us for what we actually are.

A lot of hoovers will try to do a lot of happy explaining about the loss in population in Calloway and other counties of the first district. Everybody knows where it has gone but I, for one, don't know anything we can do about it. The only permanent thing in this world is change and no one can do much to effect great economic trends that effect the whole country.

The movement from the farm to the city is a natural integral of the change in our national life that has been in continuous process since the whole country was settled and will continue until another set of economic factors arise to turn the trend in some other direction.

A large portion of the loss has been in our best and most substantial people; it is universally acknowledged that the diligent, happy, contented, industrious farm family is the cornerstone of this nation.

But as the nation has grown richer the demand for luxuries has grown infinitely greater in proportion than the demand for necessities. This requires manufacturing and the only places this can be done is in the large centers. Thither many farm families have been forced to go in order to earn a livelihood. Few have come from choice but most of them from economic necessity. Most of them would like to remain home but the irresistible pressure of economic force prevents them from doing so.

I don't like to be morbid, but I couldn't help thinking last Thursday afternoon of the number of unfortunate people, unacquainted of the tragic end awaiting them, who would go to bed that night for the last time, thinking of the joyful time they were to have celebrating the fourth.

Every holiday has its many tragedies and they seem to be growing. Carelessness causes most of them but many others are unavoidable. On many a July fourth more persons are killed in accidents in this country than were slain in some of the bloodiest bat-ties of the Revolutionary war. Warnings and safety campaigns have reduced the number of accidents in this country to some extent but as long as we have as much stuff as we do, we will have as many careless persons who refuse to accept warnings or practice common-sense rules of safety. The Grim Reaper will continue to reap a fearful harvest.

AN EXTRA MEASURE OF SERVICE

Census Facts Counted With Each Person Represented by Card That Is Punched Full of Holes Classified By A Machine

You are a card 3.4 inches long and 1.3 inches wide, with 31 holes punched in it. That is the way you appear on Uncle Sam's records in Washington, provided the census enumerator found you and turned in his report according to schedule. And so far as the Government at Washington is concerned with your case, that's all they know or want to know about you.

Your name does not appear on the card. It is on the enumerator's sheet, of course, but those are all piled up and stored away in a vault where there isn't one chance in a million of your individual name being dug out for any imaginable purpose. In the course of time these old reports will go to the paper mill, and the only identity you will have left is the punched card, looking somewhat like a rectangular square of Swiss cheese.

As fast as the enumerator's returned come to Washington they are turned over to several hundred young women who sit all day in front of electrically-operated punching machines and transfer the enumerator's information to these cards. A punch in a certain position on the card means that you live in a certain state or territory. Another punch indicates your county, a third your town, a fourth your census enumeration district. The holes are all the same size, the only difference for each fact recorded being the position of the hole in the card. There are as many keys on the punching machine as there are possible different facts about any individual, and the operator merely presses the correct key and the machine punches the hole in the right place.

A punch in one position means that you live on a farm, in another that you don't. Whether the hole which indicates Chinese birth. In doing this it makes an electrical contact which registers another figure on the counting machine that records the Chinese population. And so with each of the other plunger which finds a hole to go into. All thirty-one of them make their records simultaneously, and the punched cards pass through each one of dozens of such machines at the rate of 175,000 a day.

Any other way of classifying and totaling census facts would be so slow with a population of around 125,000,000 to be counted, that it might be a year or more before the complete total was known.

There were no counting machines or electrical appliances when the first census of the United States was made, nor for nearly a hundred years after that. Everything was done in those old days slowly, by hand, and the records kept in books, some of which are still preserved. And nobody knows whether those records were correct or not, with the chance in favor of their being decidedly inaccurate. For the early census enumerators, who were paid only $1 for each fifty names, had to cover a lot of territory, in most cases, and doubtless overlooked many inhabitants. The census of 1790, the first under our present form of government, was not completed until 1792, when President George Washington reported to Congress that there were 3,933,214 persons in the young republic. In all probability there were more than 4,000,000, or eight times as many as there had been in 1700, ninety years earlier. In the year, 1700, the population of New York, Boston and Philadelphia combined was only 15,000, and the total population of the Colonies less than half a million.

The reason why accurate counting of the population was not possible in Colonial times, and to some extent since, was the belief that to enumerate the people would bring a curse upon them. The people, especially in the New England colonies where they tried to run the government strictly in accordance with the teachings of the Bible, which they interpreted literally, feared the wrath of God if the people were counted. For proof that Divine vengeance would follow the taking of the census, they pointed to the 24th chapter of the Second Book of Samuel, which tells how King David sent Joab to number the people from Dan to Beersheba. Joab, the first census-taker on record, made a count which showed 400,000 men, 200,000 women and 100,000 children. This was followed by a pestilence which killed off 70,000 of them.

It is no wonder that a people who took every word in the Bible as literal truth feared the census-taker!

The influence of this belief extended into the other colonies, so much so that in 1712 Governor Hunter of New York, charged by the home government in London with enumerating the people of the Colony, apologized for its inaccuracy of the count, saying that the people were so superstitious that they thought an epidemic of illness had followed the last previous account.

Something of the same reluctance to be counted baffled the census-takers who tried to enumerate the inhabitants of the different Colonies early in the Revolutionary War. In equitably among them, it was realized that the census would be a central authority could make any sort of accurate census, and a provision for such a decennial count was therefore provided in the Constitution when it was adopted in 1787.

THE CRIPPLED ONES

Once upon a time a Pied Piper played a magic song and the children of Hamelin town followed him to Paradise. When the door in the hillside opened to receive them there was only one child who did not enter.

Perhaps you will remember that there was a little crippled boy whose crutches wouldn't carry him fast enough in the story-book village. So he went back, to a town that was dull and lonely, sobbing a little, as he hobbled over the stones, because the music had told him so plainly that he would be well and strong and gay if only he could hurry.

The International Rotary, celebrating its silver anniversary in Chicago, is endeavoring to answer the pitiful cry of the little cripple who wanted to walk like other boys. This very fact should confute the views of all who say that chivalry is dead, since knights in steel-blue armor no longer ride the windy highways. The practical applications of the philosophy of helpfulness that Rotary and other service clubs are putting into action today are infinitely more potent than the medieval conquest to find a silver Grail or rout a giant.

The crippled child has been Rotary's special task. This organization is attempting to straighten crooked legs; to make small, thin bodies round and plump. The Paducah Rotarians have assisted materially in this wonderful work.

It is not always possible to make children well again, of course, but the Rotary Clubs and those who are working with them, have learned that one can always open a glorious world of imagination where no one need watch the door of the promised land swing shut. They are endeavoring to give the children whom they serve so many merry, happy things to do that they won't miss the lollipop trees the Pied Piper promised to let them climb, or the singing hills that were made for the crimson hoops.

This new lease on life which the Rotary gives crippled children, aside from its other services, is reason enough for its being. To help a little cripple child realize that there is a place for him in the work fields and the play fields of life, and to make him strong enough and brave enough to fill it, is a most fitting task for modern crusaders.

Talking Clock Speaks

Time on Hour and Half

After considerable experimentation, a Philadelphia man has produced a clock that speaks the time says Popular Mechanic Magazine. The instrument consists of a combination talking clock, radio and electric phonograph, all installed in a grandfather case. The clock not only speaks the hours and half hours, but also may be made to tell the time in the form of a cheerful greeting, such as "Good morning—six o'clock." The cabinet contains an electric radio receiver with dynamic speaker which is used for the talking clock voice, the radio and the phonograph reproduction.

Italy Strikes Back at American Tariff

Rome, July 2.—Italy's reaction to the new American tariff rate today took the form of a reprisal when, without notice, the Italian import duties on automobiles were raised between 110 and 120 percent, by royal decree.

The sudden blow at automobile imports, which went into effect on Monday, had escaped notice for thirty-six hours, applied particularly to small cars. The decree raising the tariff was drawn up June 27.
